

Increasing the raw-count threshold sharply reduces available cells

All 30,533 primary macrophages retained. Counts ≥ 3 give only 21 cells across five cohorts. A raw-count cutoff denotes RNA capture; it does not establish a stable biological subtype.